Applicants must have a Ph.D. or equivalent degree in Mechanical Engineering or a closely related field. All candidates must have expertise in areas of need in the curriculum and strong communication skills. Preferred qualifications include prior experience in teaching undergraduate/ graduate-level Mechanical Science and Engineering courses. The part-time Lecturer position will be hired between 25 - 50%, with the possibility to increase the percent-time should the need arise. Positions will be appointed on a semester-by-semester basis as needed. Information about MechSE at Illinois, its programs, and its culture, can be found at <https://mechse.illinois.edu>.

To ensure full consideration, please complete your candidate profile at <https://jobs.illinois.edu> and upload your letter of application (including an indication of the course(s) for which you would like to be considered and the semester(s) in which you would be available to teach), a complete résumé, teaching statement, and a list of three professional references including contact information. You may also submit supporting material relevant to evaluating your teaching abilities.

Applications should be received as soon as possible, but no later than October 8, 2021, for teaching during the spring 2022 semester and December 15, 2021 for teaching during the fall 2022 semester. Interviews and some hiring decisions will take place before the closing dates. Salary is commensurate with qualifications. The preferred starting dates are January 3, 2022, for spring 2022 semester and August 16, 2022, for fall 2022 semester. For inquiry, please email hdorsey@illinois.edu.
