

When hydrogen and oxygen gases react, heat and light are released. This reaction produces no pollutants since the chemical product is water. Hydrogen is extremely plentiful on Earth, since two hydrogen atoms are contained in each molecule of water. We sometimes hear that the hydrogen in sea water could be the new energy source for our civilization.

Explain the key pros and cons of that idea.